Introduction

Joint Chairmen’s Report, page 12:

“The committees are interested in the impact of recent changes to the Maryland Rules regarding pretrial release and the use of cash bail across the State. As the General Assembly continues to consider statutory changes to the pretrial system, it will be especially important to understand the impact of the decreased utilization of cash bail likely to occur under the new rule. Therefore, the committees request a report on the implementation of the new rule from its effective date, July 1, 2017, to September 30, 2017.

The report should provide:

- An update on pretrial release practices, including any guidance on the new rule issued by the Judiciary
- A preliminary evaluation of the rule’s impact on reducing the number of individuals held because they cannot afford to pay their set bail
- An explanation of how affordable bail amounts are determined for individual defendants
- Recommendations for General Assembly action that would be beneficial to the implementation of the new rule”

Background

In October of 2016, the Office of the Maryland Attorney General opined, with regard to pretrial release and bail, that:

“...the Court of Appeals would conclude that the State's statutory law and court rules should be applied to require a judicial officer to conduct an individualized inquiry into a criminal defendant's ability to pay a financial condition of pretrial release. Although it is less clear that defendants have a constitutional right to an individualized inquiry, constitutional considerations provide further support to the requirement of an individualized inquiry. It is also my view that, while imposing a financial condition is allowed under current State law and is not unconstitutional in and of itself, the Court of Appeals would likely hold that, in the event a judicial officer determines that pretrial detention is not justified to meet the State's regulatory goals, a judicial officer may not impose a financial condition set solely to detain the defendant. Conditions of pretrial release must instead be the least onerous to reasonably ensure the appearance of the defendant as required, protect the safety of the victim, or ensure that the defendant will not pose a danger to another person or the community. As a result, setting the bail in an amount not affordable to the defendant, thus effectively denying release, raises a significant risk that the Court of Appeals would find it violates due process. If pretrial detention is not justified yet bail is set out of reach financially for the defendant, it is also likely the Court would declare that the bail is excessive under the Eighth Amendment and Article 25 of the Maryland Declaration of Rights.”

Judiciary Guidance, New Rule 4-216.1

Maryland took its first step toward bail reform in February of 2017 when the Court of Appeals adopted new Rule 4-216.1 (“Rule”) (Attachment 1: Rule 4-216.1). That Rule provided guidance to judicial officers regarding pretrial release of arrested individuals. The effective date of Rule 4-216.1 was July 1, 2017.

As it states, “[t]his Rule is designed to promote the release of defendants on their own recognizance or, when necessary, unsecured bond. Additional conditions should be imposed on release only if the need to ensure appearance at court proceedings, to protect the community, victims, witnesses, or any other person and to maintain the integrity of the judicial process is demonstrated by the circumstances of the individual case. Preference should be given to additional conditions without financial terms.”

Prior to the effective date of the Rule, leadership in both the Circuit and District courts sent a Letter of Advice to all judges and commissioners to assist them in the proper determination of bail. A copy of the Letter of Advice is attached as Attachment 2. Other guidance offered on the new pretrial release rules included presentations and communications with commissioners and judges regarding the proper interpretation of both the Letter of Advice and the new Maryland Rule. In June 2017, Judge Alan Wilner, Chair of the Maryland Judiciary’s Standing Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure, led a plenary session at the Judicial Conference focusing on the new Rule and its implications.

Current Method for Determining Affordable Bail Amounts for Defendant

For guidance on how affordable bail amounts are determined for individual defendants, the Judiciary would direct the Maryland General Assembly to the parameters set forth in the Rule.

Preliminary Evaluation, Impact of Rule

The passage of Maryland Rule 2-416.1 is part of a larger focus to improve pretrial justice. The enclosed data indicates that since the Letter of Advice was sent on October 26, 2016, significantly more individuals are being released on their own recognizance from pretrial detention. In addition, the use of Unsecured Personal Bonds, also a release of the individual from pretrial detention, has increased. Concurrently, the number of individuals being held on a cash bail has decreased significantly. Individuals being placed in a Hold without Bail status has increased since the Letter of Advice and the new Rule took effect. While the overall number of individuals Held without Bail has increased, the overall number of all individuals held pretrial has decreased. This increase is directly related to the decrease in the number of individuals Held in Default of Bond.

To complement the effects of the new Rule, enhanced pretrial services must be implemented in each county that does not yet have a pretrial services unit. The data indicates that the Rule is succeeding in ensuring that lower level offenders are not detained solely because they cannot afford bail. It also indicates that those that pose the most risk are being preventively detained. The more challenging cases are found in the middle of the spectrum where an effective county based pretrial system would ensure public safety while contemporaneously reducing pretrial jail populations. While the larger counties utilize pretrial supervision programs, the adoption of effective pretrial service programs with varying levels of supervision informed by a risk assessment tool in all counties is needed. Eleven of the 24 counties in Maryland have some form of pretrial services, some as rudimentary as telephone calls to defendants, some as sophisticated as varying levels of supervision based on the use of a risk and needs assessment tool. At least five counties have recently initiated serious discussions between justice partners, primarily the courts and detention centers, regarding the development of pretrial services programs. The Judiciary is collaborating with its justice partners to pilot pretrial programs in three of those jurisdictions and is in the first stages of investigating a statewide risk assessment tool. In addition, a one day conference with various criminal justice partners to further explore the nuts and bolts of developing and running a pretrial services program and how to develop and use a risk assessment tool will assist with implementing county plans. A delay in legislative action is requested to allow these pretrial opportunities to be explored.

Committee Requested Data

To complete an evaluation of the impact of New Rule 4-2016.1 as requested by the Committee, the following statistics were analyzed:

- Pretrial Bail Review Outcomes, July 2016-September 2017
- Pretrial Initial Appearance Bail Outcome Statistics, July 2016-September 2017
- Initial Appearance: Held-Without-Bail (HWOB) Bail Review Statistics, July 2016-September 2017
- Pretrial: Defendants Held for Five days or more, July 201[6]¹-September 2017
- Failure to Appear: Report by Jurisdiction, July 2016-September 2017

¹ Although the Committee report requested data from July 2017 to September 2017, this report includes data from July 2016 to September 2017.

Attachment 3: Statistical Evaluation, Impact of New Rule 4-216.1 provides the findings of this statistical evaluation as requested by the Committee in their request:

1. Committee Request: Pretrial Dispositions
 - Requested Date Range: July 2016-September 2017 by month
 - Requested Geographic Specifications: Jurisdictional
 - Disposition Data Requested
 - Held on Cash Bail, number and as a percentage of Initial Appearances
 - Released Without Conditions or On Own Recognizance, number and as a percentage of Initial Appearances
 - Released with Non-Monetary Conditions, number and as a percentage of Initial Appearances
 - Held Without Bail, number and as a percentage of Initial Appearances
2. Committee Request: Failure to Appear Rates
 - Requested Date Range: July 2016-September 2017
 - Requested Geographic Specifications: Jurisdictional
 - Data requested
 - Number and percentage of defendants that fail to appear (as a percentage of Initial Appearances).
3. Committee Request: Defendants Held in Custody for More than Five Days after Bail is Set
 - Requested Date Range: July 2017-September 2017
 - Data requested
 - Number and percentage of defendants (as a percentage of Initial Appearances)

Data Findings

The following nomenclature is used in the statistical evaluation:

1. Held on cash bail is signified by Held on Default of Bond. Released without conditions or on recognizance is signified by Released on Recognizance (ROR). Please note that all RORs contain the condition that the individual obey all laws and return to court. The Maryland Judiciary does not track any additional conditions placed on a particular individual.
2. Released with non-monetary conditions is also signified by Unsecured Personal Bonds (UPB). A UPB is a promise to pay a certain amount by an individual should they fail to appear for court. Together, UPB and ROR constitute the Release Rate.

3. Held without Bail is signified by Held without Bail (HWOB).
4. Percent Bonds (PCT) and ParB are not included in the tables. PCT and ParB indicate a cash bail that is less than 100%, typically 10%. For example, a $1,000.00 bail, 10% cash to the court means the individual can post $100.00 to the court and the collateral will be returned to the individual assuming the individual returns to court for their court date.
5. BALR indicates a Bail Review hearing by a judge.
6. An Initial Appearance is the first interaction with a judicial officer, typically a Commissioner, after arrest. Any individual that is not released by a Commissioner will be seen by a judge at a Bail Review hearing the next court session.
7. The charts include only criminal offenses. Jailable traffic offenses are not included.

Table 1 shows the number and outcomes of first Initial Appearances conducted by Commissioners by county by month. Table 2 shows the same data for the entire period from July 2016 to September 2017. When the months of July 2016 to October 2016 (hearings held prior to the Letter of Advice) are compared to the months of November 2016 to September 2017 (hearings held after the Letter of Advice), the following results can be seen:

- The percentage of individuals Released on Recognizance at the Initial Appearance increased from 35.4% to 41.5%.
- The percentage of individuals Released on an Unsecured Personal Bond at the Initial Appearance increased from 9.0% to 10.5%.
- The percentage of individuals Held in Default of Bond at the Initial Appearance dropped from 40.2% to 20.8%.
- The percentage of individuals Held without Bail at the Initial Appearance increased from 7.5% to 19.3%.

Table 3 shows the number and outcome of individuals appearing before a judge at a Bail Review hearing by county, by month. Table 4 shows the same data for the entire period from July 2016 to September 2017. Bail Review hearings are conducted at the next court session after the Initial Appearance and consist of those individuals that were Held in Default of Bond that failed to post the bond prior to the Bail Review hearing and those individuals that were Held without Bail. It is important to note that Commissioners are statutorily required to Hold without Bail certain individuals. [MD Rule 4-216(d)] Judges may alter these statutorily required Held without Bonds at the Bail Review hearing. The following results can be seen by comparison between Table 2 and Table 4:

- The percentage of those individuals that were Held without Bail by a Commissioner drops from 16.2% (Table 2) to 10.7% (Table 4) after a Bail Review hearing.
- 5.2% of the individuals who are no longer in a Held without Bail status as the result of the Bond Review are Released on Recognizance, 17.9 % are given a bond, and 2.2% are given an Unsecured Personal Bond.

Tables 5 and 6 indicate the initial Failure to Appear rate after an Initial Appearance. It is important to note that individuals Held in Default of Bond may remain detained in jail until the first trial date thereby reducing the FTA for those Held in Default of Bond. The results of Tables 5 and 6 indicate:

- The overall FTA rate in criminal cases is 9.4%.
- The average FTA rate for those individuals that were Held in Default of Bond is 2.4% during the reporting period.
- The average FTA rate for those individuals that were Released on Recognizance is 5.7% during the reporting period.
- The average FTA rate for those released on an Unsecured Personal Bond is 1.3%.

When the months of July 2016 to October 2016 (hearings held prior to the Letter of Advice) are compared to the months of November 2016 to September 2017 (hearings held after the Letter of Advice), the following results can be seen:

- The overall FTA rate decreased from 10.1% to 9.2%.
- The FTA rate decreased from 3.1 to 2.1% for those individuals that were Held in Default of Bond.
- The FTA rate held constant at 5.7% for those individuals Released on Recognizance.
- The FTA rate increased from 1.2% to 1.4% for those released on an Unsecured Personal Bond.

Tables 7 and 8 indicate the number and percentage of individuals Released on Recognizance or on an Unsecured Personal Bond, those individuals Held without Bond at 6 days, and those individuals Held in Default of Bond for more than 5 days. When the months of July 2016 to October 2016 (hearings held prior to the Letter of Advice) are compared to the months of November 2016 to September 2017 (hearings held after the Letter of Advice), the following results can be seen:

- The percentage of individuals Released on Recognizance or Unsecured Personal Bonds increased from 44.6% to 52.4%.
- The percentage of individuals Held in Default of Bond for more than 5 days decreased from 17% to 8%.
- The percentage of individuals Held without Bond at 6 days increased from 6.5% to 15.8%.

Recommendations, Implementation of New Rule 4-2016.1

The Judiciary does not make any recommendations at this time regarding action that would be beneficial to the implementation of this Rule and further again would request that legislators give time for the Rule to make an impact on pretrial detention before making any changes.

Attachment 1: New Rule 4-216.1

RULE 4-216.1. PRETRIAL RELEASE--STANDARDS GOVERNING

West's Annotated Code of Maryland Maryland Rules

MD Rules, Rule 4-216.1

RULE 4-216.1. PRETRIAL RELEASE--STANDARDS GOVERNING

Currentness

(a) Definitions. The following definitions apply in this Rule:

- (1) Appearance; Appear. “Appearance” or “appear” means the appearance of the defendant in court whenever required.
- (2) Bond. “Bond” means a written obligation of the person signing the bond conditioned on the appearance of the defendant and providing for the payment of a penalty sum according to its terms.
- (3) Collateral Security. “Collateral security” means any property deposited, pledged, or encumbered to secure the performance of a bond.
- (4) Compensated Surety. “Compensated surety” means a person who is licensed to become a surety on bonds written in the county and who charges compensation for acting as surety for defendants.
- (5) Release on Personal Recognizance. “Release on personal recognizance” means a release, without the requirement of a bond, based on a written promise by the defendant (A) to appear in court when required to do so, (B) to commit no criminal offense while on release, and (C) to comply with all other conditions imposed by the judicial officer pursuant to this Rule, Rule 4-216.2, or by other law while on release.

Committee note: The principal differences between a personal recognizance and a bond are that the former does not provide for payment of a penalty sum if the defendant fails to appear when required and is not subject to any financial conditions.

- (6) Special Condition. “Special condition” means a condition of release required by a judicial officer, other than the conditions that the defendant appear in court when required to do so and commit no criminal offense while on release.
- (7) Special Condition of Release with Financial Terms. “Special condition of release with financial terms” means the requirement of collateral security or the guarantee of the defendant's appearance by a compensated surety as a condition of the defendant's release. The term does not include (A) an unsecured bond by the defendant or (B) the cost associated with a service that is a condition of release and is affordable by the defendant or waived by the court.

Committee note: Examples of a condition of release that is not a special condition of release with financial terms are participation in an ignition interlock program, use of an alcohol consumption monitoring system, and GPS monitoring.

(8) Surety. “Surety” means a person other than the defendant who, by executing a bond, guarantees the appearance of the defendant and includes an uncompensated or accommodation surety.

(9) Surety Insurer. “Surety insurer” means a person in the business of becoming, either directly or through an agent, a surety on a bond for compensation.

(10) Uncompensated Surety. “Uncompensated surety” means an accommodation surety who does not charge or receive compensation for acting as a surety for the defendant.

(b) General Principles.

(1) Construction.

(A) This Rule is designed to promote the release of defendants on their own recognizance or, when necessary, unsecured bond. Additional conditions should be imposed on release only if the need to ensure appearance at court proceedings, to protect the community, victims, witnesses, or any other person and to maintain the integrity of the judicial process is demonstrated by the circumstances of the individual case. Preference should be given to additional conditions without financial terms.

(B) This Rule shall be construed to permit the release of a defendant pending trial except upon a finding by the judicial officer that, if the defendant is released, there is a reasonable likelihood that the defendant (i) will not appear when required, or (ii) will be a danger to an alleged victim, another person, or the community. If such a finding is made, the defendant shall not be released.

Cross reference: Code, Criminal Procedure Article, § 5-101. For the inapplicability of the Rules in Title 5 to pretrial release proceedings, see Rule 5-101 (b).

(2) Individualized Consideration. A decision by a judicial officer whether or on what conditions to release a defendant shall be based on a consideration of specific facts and circumstances applicable to the particular defendant, including the ability of the defendant to meet a special condition of release with financial terms or comply with a special condition and the facts and circumstances constituting probable cause for the charges.

(3) Least Onerous Conditions. If a judicial officer determines that a defendant should be released other than on personal recognizance or unsecured bond without special conditions, the judicial officer shall impose on the defendant the least onerous condition or combination of conditions of release set forth in section (d) of this Rule that will reasonably ensure (A) the appearance of the defendant, and (B) the safety of each alleged victim, other persons, and the community and may impose a financial condition only in accordance with section (e) of this Rule.

Committee note: If a defendant was arrested without a warrant and the judicial officer finds no probable cause for any of the charges or for the arrest, Rule 4-216 (a) requires that the defendant be released on personal recognizance, with no conditions imposed.

(4) Exceptions. Nothing in this Rule is intended to preclude a defendant from being held in custody based on an alleged violation of

(A) a condition of pretrial release, a release under Rule 4-349, or an order of probation or parole previously imposed in another case, or (B) a condition of pretrial release previously imposed in the instant case.

(c) Release on Personal Recognizance or Unsecured Bond.

(1) Generally. Except as otherwise limited by Code, Criminal Procedure Article, § 5-101 or § 5-202, unless the judicial officer finds that no permissible non-financial condition attached to a release will reasonably ensure (A) the appearance of the defendant, and (B) the safety of each alleged victim, other persons, or the community, the judicial officer shall release a defendant on personal recognizance or unsecured bond, with or without special conditions. If the judicial officer makes such a finding, the judicial officer shall state the basis for it on the record.

Committee note: Pursuant to section (b) of this Rule, the preference should be for release on personal recognizance.

Cross reference: Code, Criminal Procedure Article, § 5-101 (c) precludes release on personal recognizance if the defendant is charged with certain crimes. Section 5-202 of that Article precludes release by a District Court commissioner if the defendant is charged with certain crimes under certain circumstances.

(2) Permissible Conditions. Permissible conditions for purposes of this section include the required conditions set forth in subsection (d) (1) and the special conditions set forth or authorized in subsection (d) (2) of this Rule.

(d) Special Conditions of Release.

(1) Required Conditions. There shall be included, as conditions of any release of the defendant that (A) the defendant will not engage in any criminal conduct during the period of pretrial release, and (B) the defendant will appear in court when required to do so.

(2) Special Conditions. Subject to section (b) of this Rule, special conditions of release imposed by a judicial officer under this Rule may include, to the extent appropriate and capable of implementation:

- (A) one or more of the conditions authorized under Code, Criminal Law Article, § 9-304 reasonably necessary to stop or prevent the intimidation of a victim or witness or a violation of Code, Criminal Law Article, §§ 9-302, 9-303, or 9-305, including a general no-contact order;
- (B) reasonable restrictions with respect to travel, association, and place of residence
- (C) a requirement that the defendant maintain employment or, if unemployed, actively seek employment;

- (D) a requirement that the defendant maintain or commence an educational program;
- (E) a reasonable curfew, taking into account the defendant's employment, educational, or other lawful commitments;
- (F) a requirement that the defendant refrain from possessing a firearm, destructive device, or other dangerous weapon;
- (G) a requirement that the defendant refrain from excessive use of alcohol or use or possession of a narcotic drug or other controlled dangerous substance, as defined in Code, Criminal Law Article, § 5-101 (f), without a prescription from a licensed medical practitioner;
- (H) a requirement that the defendant undergo available medical, psychological, or psychiatric treatment or counseling for drug or alcohol dependency;
- (I) electronic monitoring;
- (J) periodic reporting to designated supervisory persons;
- (K) committing the defendant to the custody or supervision of a designated person or organization that agrees to supervise the defendant and assist in ensuring the defendant's appearance in court;

Committee note: The judicial officer may commit the defendant generally to supervision by a pretrial services unit operating in the county, subject to more detailed requirements of that unit appropriate to the supervision.

- (L) execution of unsecured bonds by the defendant and an uncompensated surety who (i) has a verifiable and lawful personal relationship with the defendant, (ii) is acceptable to the judicial officer, and (iii) is willing to execute such a bond in an amount specified by the judicial officer;
- (M) execution of a bond in an amount specified by the judicial officer secured by the deposit of collateral security equal in value to not more than 10% of the penalty amount of the bond or by the obligation of a surety, including a surety insurer, acceptable to the judicial officer;
- (N) execution of a bond secured by the deposit of collateral security of a value in excess of 10% of the penalty amount of the bond or by the obligation of a surety, including a surety insurer, acceptable to the judicial officer; and Committee note: A compensated surety qualified under Rule 4-217 is presumptively acceptable. Before finding an uncompensated surety to be acceptable, the judicial officer should inquire into the ability of the proposed surety to satisfy the condition of the bond if called upon to do so. Whenever possible, however, the judicial officer should give preference to an uncompensated surety having a verifiable and lawful personal relationship with the defendant and, if collateral security is required, should accept the posting of adequate real or personal property of that surety or the defendant. This preference is based on the inference that the defendant may be more likely to appear when required if the liability and property of a friend or family member is at risk.

- (O) any other lawful condition that will help ensure the appearance of the defendant or the safety of each alleged victim, other persons, or the community.

(e) Release on Special Conditions.

(1) Generally.

- (A) A judicial officer may not impose a special condition of release with financial terms in form or amount that results in the pretrial detention of the defendant solely because the defendant is financially incapable of meeting that condition. In making that determination, the judicial officer may consider all resources available to the defendant from any lawful source.

Committee note: Information regarding the defendant's financial situation may come from several sources. The Initial Appearance Questionnaire Form used by District Court commissioners seeks information from the defendant regarding employment, occupation, amount and source of income, housing status, marital status, and number of dependents relying on the defendant's income. The criminal and juvenile record checks made by the commissioner also may reveal relevant information. Additional information may be available to the judge at a bail review proceeding from a defense attorney, the State's Attorney, and a pretrial services unit.

- (B) Special conditions of release with financial terms are appropriate only to ensure the appearance of the defendant and may not be imposed solely to prevent future criminal conduct during the pretrial period or to protect the safety of any person or the community; nor may they be imposed to punish the defendant or to placate public opinion.
- (C) Special conditions of release with financial terms may not be set by reference to a predetermined schedule of amounts fixed according to the nature of the charge.

(2) Other Permissible Conditions. If the judicial officer finds that one or more special conditions also may be required to reasonably ensure (A) the appearance of the defendant, and (B) the safety of each alleged victim, other persons, or the community, the judicial officer may impose on the defendant one or more special conditions in accordance with section (d) of this Rule.

(f) Consideration of Factors.

(1) Recommendation of Pretrial Release Services Program. In determining whether a defendant should be released and the conditions of release, the judicial officer shall give consideration to the recommendation of any pretrial release services program that has made a risk assessment of the defendant in accordance with a validated risk assessment tool and is willing to provide an acceptable level of supervision over the defendant during the period of release if so directed by the judicial officer.

(2) Other Factors. In addition to any recommendation made in accordance with subsection (f)(1) of this Rule, the judicial officer shall consider the following factors:

- (A) the nature and circumstances of the offense charged, the nature of the evidence against the defendant, and the potential sentence upon conviction;

- (B) the defendant's prior record of appearance at court proceedings or flight to avoid prosecution or failure to appear at court proceedings;
- (C) the defendant's family ties, employment status and history, financial resources, reputation, character and mental condition, length of residence in the community, and length of residence in this State;
- (D) any request made under Code, Criminal Procedure Article, § 5-201 (a) for reasonable protections for the safety of an alleged victim;
- (E) any recommendation of an agency that conducts pretrial release investigations;
- (F) any information presented by the State's Attorney and any recommendation of the State's Attorney;
- (G) any information presented by the defendant or defendant's attorney;
- (H) the danger of the defendant to an alleged victim, another person, or the community;
- (I) the danger of the defendant to himself or herself; and
- (J) any other factor bearing on the risk of a willful failure to appear and the safety of each alleged victim, another person, or the community, including all prior convictions and any prior adjudications of delinquency that occurred within three years of the date the defendant is charged as an adult.

(g) Disclosure. If the judicial officer requires collateral security, the judicial officer shall advise the defendant that, if the defendant or an uncompensated surety posts the required cash or other property, it will be refunded at the conclusion of the criminal proceedings if the defendant has not defaulted in the performance of the conditions of the bond.

Judges/Commissioners:

In light of the recent AG's opinion, the case law relied upon in that opinion, the ABA Criminal Justice Section Standards on Pretrial Release (Third Edition), and current Maryland Rule 4-216, please find below cautionary advice for consideration to help guide you when setting bail.

1. A defendant should be released on personal recognizance, with or without permissible conditions, unless the judicial officer finds that no permissible condition or combination of such conditions will reasonably assure (i) the appearance of the defendant when required, and (ii) the safety of alleged victims, other persons, and the community. If the judicial officer makes such a finding, the Rule requires the basis for the finding must be stated clearly on the record so that it is capable of review.
2. If the defendant cannot be released on personal recognizance, the judicial officer should impose the least onerous condition or combination of conditions that will reasonably ensure the appearance of the defendant and the safety of alleged victims, other persons, and the community.
3. The posting of money or other property or the obligation of a compensated surety should be used only when necessary to assure the appearance of the defendant rather than for the assurance of public safety.
4. Financial conditions are not an appropriate way of assuring public safety and should not be imposed for the purpose of assuring the detention of the defendant.
5. If there is any reasonable likelihood of danger to victims, other persons, or the community, the defendant should not be released.
6. Financial conditions should not be imposed if you know or have reason to believe that the defendant is financially incapable of meeting.
7. Financial conditions should not be imposed in order to placate public opinion or to punish the defendant.
8. These principles should be construed to avoid, whenever possible, defendants being detained who do not need to be detained.

John P. Morrissey, Chief Judge, District Court of Maryland
